Sabrient Systems' Stock Selections Post Record Performance

SANTA BARBARA, CA, September 14, 2006 — Sabrient Systems' published stock selections continue to outperform market benchmarks across a broad range of market caps and investing styles. Since April 2002, when the company began publishing its selections, the selected stocks have outperformed their relevant benchmarks by 3.5% to 42.0% per year (see performance table below).

Sabrient publishes its stock selections by market cap across three major investing styles: value, growth and momentum.

"Our best performing selections have been inversely proportionate to market capitalization," said David Brown, Sabrient's chief market strategist. "In other words, our micro-cap selections have the best performance across all three styles, followed by small-caps and mid-caps, with large-caps showing the least impressive performance, although even they outperformed the relevant benchmark across all styles."

Sabrient's performance tests were conducted on 50-stock portfolios rebalanced monthly for the period 4-19-2002 to 9-13-2005.
